

GENTLEMAN GEORGE DECKER IS DEAD

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 10.—George Decker, known as "Gentleman George," who formerly played with Captain Anson's Chicago Colts, is dead.

Decker died at Compton yesterday. During the last few years he has been an inmate of a California asylum, his mind having been affected by illness.

Decker was an all around player when with Anson's team, playing both infield and outfield and finally succeeding Anson at first base. He was with the Louisville and St. Louis teams after leaving the Colts in 1898.

It requires skill and scientific knowledge to correctly fit the eyes with proper glasses. When you get glasses of me you pay no more than they are worth and know that they fit your eyes. The eyes are too precious to be tampered with by incompetent who handle glasses as merchandise and offer them at variable prices. Glasses that fit your eyes have a specific value (my kind) others are dear at any price for they might ruin your eyes.

KETCHEL WINNER IN THIRD ROUND

Montana Miner Makes Easy
Work of Jack O'Brien
Last Night—Shows up
Better than Johnson

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 10.—Stanley Ketchel, the Montana miner, is the big factor in the pugilistic world today. His defeat of Philadelphia Jack O'Brien in less than three rounds last night has made him the favorite here for the fight with Johnson. Both men have been seen in action in the same ring and today those who attended the bouts declare Ketchel has a much harder punch than Johnson; that he is very much faster, and that the flat footed style of the negro champion would make him a comparatively easy mark for the westerner.

"Ketchel will beat Johnson to a pulp when they meet in San Francisco," declared O'Brien today. "I have tried out both men and I want to say right here, no more Ketchel for mine. He surprised me and has improved wonderfully since I met him in New York. He is the hardest hitter I ever met. I thought I had a chance to win until he got to me with those body blows and then it was all off. Here is what will defeat Johnson: he cannot stand stomach punishment and in that he is not alone as Walcott, Gans and Langford were in the same boat. Now Ketchel fights with the same idea that one good punch to the stomach is better than half a dozen to the jaw and I believe he has the right dope on the way to beat the negro. Every punch Ketchel starts has the knockout in it but fortunately most of them go wild. I am free to confess now that I would sooner have a roof fall on me than to act as the receiver for many of Ketchel's blows. I was sorry last night that the referee stopped the fight but I know better now that I have had a chance to feel the effect of the punching I got."

O'Brien put up a game fight but he was outclassed from the start. For the first time in any of his fights Ketchel showed speed direct from the go-in. He was after O'Brien like a flash when the latter tried to get away from him after the initial sparring and rained a fusillade of rights and lefts to the body of the Philadelphian. As a matter of fact the bell saved O'Brien in the second round and when he came up for the third he was so dazed he did not know what he was doing. A stinging left hook to the stomach had taken all of the ginger out of the local man and he was very pale while there was little of the shifty fighter in his appearance then.

The third round lasted less than a minute. O'Brien reeled and foundered about the ring and Ketchel sent him down with a blow, the impact of which could be plainly heard. O'Brien was all but out and Referee McGuigan waved Ketchel to his corner as the victor. He explained later that if he had permitted a knockout there was every chance that O'Brien would have been fatally hurt. Sitting in his corner before going to his dressing room, Ketchel said:

"I knew I could whip O'Brien in less than six rounds. I fought him just as I planned. He couldn't withstand my rushing tactics and was beaten from the first go. I am more confident than ever that I can whip Johnson. The negro's poor showing against O'Brien convinced me of this."

The attendance was 2,500 and the receipts, according to the officials of the club, were $6,500.

Pittsburg won easily from Philadelphia, shutting out the Phillies by a score of 6 to 0. Willis was strong at all times and allowed but one opposing player to reach third. Sparks was weak and was replaced in the third by McQuillan. Doolin was hit by a foul tip in the eighth inning, Jacklitsch taking his place.

St. Louis won from Brooklyn by a score of 4 to 3. Gilbert caught Alperman napping and scored the winning run in the eighth on a short hit to left field by Beebe, who relieved Sallee.

Only the first game of a double-header scheduled was played, rain ending the second contest of Cincinnati and Boston after the Bostonians had retired without a run in the first inning.

"ALL ABOARD" FOR BALL PARK SATURDAY

Much fun is said to be in store for the baseball enthusiasts who attend the baseball game between the "Fat vs. Lean Commercial Travelers" at League park Saturday.

Although the game will be largely of a burlesque order, and some amusing stunts will be pulled off aside from the regular game, Captain Fred Ruplin of the Fat men, assures The Tribune that his team has been practicing hard and will "clean 'em up." He said that their avoirdupois is not excessive, but merely denotes good living, and when it comes to a question of playing baseball they will be found competent.

Uniforms of variegated hue have been especially purchased for the occasion, and it is rumored that a few clowns and funny men will also be present. The game will be called at 2:15.

The line-up of the two aggressive factions will be as follows:
Fats—Joe Weigel, c; Fred Ruplin, p; Austin Crook, 1b; R. Morrell, 2b; Ed Felzer, 3b; M. White, ss; H. M. Hurtgen, lf; Alex Metcalf, rf; Al Thompson, cf; J. B. Meng, T. S. Chalmers, John Elliott, substitutes.

paratively inconsequential character, being for the most part what is known as service bills. Among the important measures of this character which may be mentioned is the law which provides that where the distance between the car stop and the passenger platform is more than nineteen inches, a portable step must be provided. Short cabooses are forbidden by another act. Three measures passed enlarge the powers of the commission as to the review of freight overcharges.

Another bill which passed gives to the commission the power to order the depression of elevation of railroad tracks, and further provides that the commission can assess the damages and order changes in highways necessary to elevation or depression of tracks. This bill applies not only to cities but also to county crossings, and means the eventual abolishment everywhere in the state of dangerous crossings.

A companion to the crossing measure is the spur track law, which enlarges the powers of the commission as to the building of spur tracks. It also gives to common councils the right to regulate docks and dredging, this being a railroad measure to a great extent because of the ownership of this class of property. Another law allows free or reduced transportation to be given immigration agents.

Electric railway legislation was marked rather by what failed than by what passed. Under a demand for broader powers of eminent domain, the electric roads stormed the legislature early in the session for bills which would have given to interurban roads franchise rights on city streets by user. A tenacious fight was made for these bills. However, all of them were defeated. The passage early in the session of a bill which was introduced in the assembly by Mr. Kalaher, placing electric roads on the same basis as steam roads so far as the use of condemnation proceedings are concerned, proved a powerful argument against the granting of franchise rights under the cloak of eminent domain. Another bill passed places the electric railways under the same liabilities as regards negligence accidents as applies to steam roads. This means that electric railways hereafter will be liable under the court decision affecting steam roads as regards grade crossing accidents and also that the provisions of the co-employee law will apply to electric railways. Several important service bills also have been passed. The most important of these are the measures requiring electric railways to equip interurban cars with air-brakes, providing for the heating of interurban cars, and providing also closed stations at all cities and villages reached by electric lines. A bill in which electric roads are interested together with other public utilities, is the one extending the time to July 1, 1911 for public utilities to take indeterminate franchises. It is a compromise to the public utility law passed two years ago that few changes have been made in it by this legislature. Though seven laws amending the public utility act were passed, they called only for inconsequential changes.

Insurance Legislation. This legislature has been progressive so far as insurance legislation is concerned. Before the session opened it was whispered in insurance circles that the excellent insurance code adopted two years ago was to be repealed by this legislature. None of the repeal bills received even a favorable recommendation from a committee. Instead, an addition has been made to the code of a valuation law drawn on the lines of the Ekern bill defeated two years ago. Next in importance to the valuation bill is the bill which makes the statement of the insured to the company a mere representation instead of a warranty. A law prohibiting the giving of rebates by fire insurance agents is another meritorious measure. A measure which would have permitted liability companies to form combinations was vetoed by Gov. Davidson. The insurance taxation question was laid over to the special session with instructions to the legislature to report to the legislature a plan of taxation for life insurance companies.

Banking Legislation. Banking legislation enacted at this session was also important. Companion bills were introduced in the session whose main aim was to forbid institutions not to organize for financial purposes to receive deposits. The bills were 114S and 485S. The former measure simply forbids any persons or institutions save real estate agents and they only for the purpose of deposit for the purchase of property receiving deposits and paying interest thereon. The object of this bill was undoubtedly to cut out department stores and country stores from receiving moneys on deposit. The bill 485S is the trust

M'VEAGH UTTERS WARNING. People like to know something about what members of the president's cabinet stand for, not only because the direction of the influence they personally exert is thereby indicated, but because as members of the president's official family they are to some extent regarded as voicing the sentiments of the one man in the United States who cannot be interviewed, and whose attitude is of greatest interest to the public. So some interest will attach throughout the country to the expressions of Secretary Franklin McVeagh against the tariff, delivered before the Chicago Commercial club. Of that speech the Chicago Record-Herald says:

There were several striking and epigrammatic sentences in Secretary McVeagh's candid and felicitous speech before the Commercial club of this city, but particular attention, it is to be hoped, will be paid in Washington to his reference to the kind of revision the middle west expects and will have sooner or later.

"It is talking against the wind to argue that the revision expected is not a revision downward," said Mr. McVeagh. Messrs. Aldrich, Lodge, Elkins & Co., Standpatters Extraordinary, cannot too thoroughly master the truth that their sophistical construction of the republican tariff plank leaves as much impression on the west as talk against the wind.

And if they imagine that, because they have the votes in the senate, they can force the west to accept needily and helplessly a tariff that company bill, and provides for the regulation of trust companies. It defines their duties and permits them to receive time deposits and to pay interest thereon. They are placed under the same restrictions as banks and are subjected to the examination of the banking department. Other measure passed forbid state banks from in the future establishing branch banks, but permits those branches already established to remain and extends the powers of the commissioner of banking as to the winding up of insolvent bank corporations.

Legal Procedure. In the way of changes in legal procedure this legislature did very little although there was a host of bills in on the subject. The most important measure passed was a committee bill in regard to the examination of parties for the purposes of formulating complaints and answers in suits. Hitherto these examinations have been confined to principals to suits. Under the new law they are to be extended to agents. A law was passed some years ago attempting to extend these examinations to agents of corporations, but was held unconstitutional because private individuals were not included within its scope. The new law applies to private individuals as well as corporate and thus does not come within the taint of class legislation. Minor changes with regard to the practices before court commissioners and the services of summons on corporations in suits involving the ownership of corporation stock were among other practice bills passed.

Pure Food Laws. In the way of pure food legislation this legislature has done more than any of its predecessors and as a result the state of Wisconsin has today the most complete pure food code of any state in the union. All the bills are not yet signed, but they all will be, and by the terms of the measures, Dairy and Pure Food Commissioner Emery is given the power to prosecute any case where it is discovered that foods for the table are being sold with adulterations of any kind. The general bill on the subject, 512A, is in itself a most complete measure and it defines nearly all characters of food which are prepared in any way. The bill forbids the use of adulterants in any form. Special bills were prepared on the subject of corn syrup and sausages. In these foods any adulterants are forbidden. Another bill forbids the use of benzoate of soda in any form as a preservative, while other measures define what fruit preserves and catsups shall contain. With this legislation it will be impossible to sell in Wisconsin any foods which are not absolutely pure or which do not come up to the standards of the state laws, whether they be manufactured within the state or in other states. Not only food for humans has been looked after, but also the feeding stuffs prepared for animals. Another measure which passed the legislature compelling the printing of the ingredients of these animal foods on packages is designed to protect the buyer from fraud or injury to his stock. Still another bill defines pure beer and malt liquors of all kinds.

High Kidnaping Penalty. The most important change in the criminal code is the raising of the penalty for kidnaping to life imprisonment. This is the outgrowth of the Whittia kidnaping case but even if it was passed under stress of popular indignation, criminologists concede that it is a good law. Most of the other changes in the criminal code are of a minor character and relate in large part to misdemeanors.

Constitutional Changes. The most important constitutional amendments to secure recognition from this legislature were measures passed two years ago and therefore will be submitted to the people at the next general election. One increases salaries of members of the legislature from $500 to $1,000 while the other limits the right of voting franchise to citizens of the United States, thus Important Court Decisions.

NOTICE OF GAMBLER'S LIEN.—An Ohio statute provides that any persons losing money in a bucket shop or at gambling may have a lien for the amount of his loss on the premises. One Penny, having lost money in a bucket shop transaction, recovered a judgment against the operator of the place, but did not join the owner of the premises. Thereafter the premises were conveyed to purchasers without notice, for value. Following this sale Penny brought another suit and joined the owners of the premises. In Sanders vs. Penny, 86 Northeastern Reporter, 988, the Ohio supreme court held that the statute authorizes a recovery against one carrying on the unlawful business, and does not give a lost lien upon the premises until the suit is brought. The consequences of the actions of the vendor cannot be visited upon the vendee to his detriment, where he had neither knowledge nor an accessible source of knowledge.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Hard to Please. The pessimist in spring time. Maintains his jaundiced view. The berry cake. He calls a fake. Because of berries few.

The pessimist to springtime. Is very quick to blame; Emits a scream. About the team. Because they lose a game. —Kansas City Journal.

In the Complaint Department. "Is this the complaint department?" asked a gray haired man placing a small package on the counter in a Milwaukee department store. "Yes, sir. What can I do for you?" asked the complaint clerk.

"Well, I want to return these goldfish. Bought 'em only a week ago and they died."

"Perhaps you didn't give them proper care."

"Didn't hey? fussed o'ver the dumb things half the time. Fed 'em on milk and chicken broth. They never were satisfactory anyhow. Tried to touch 'em up with gold paint yesterday morning, but the measly fish died."

"Is this where my ma returns things?" said a boy.

"Yes."

"Well, I want to return this candy."

"But you've licked the stripes off."

"I know I have, but it ain't the kind I like."

"I'd like to get credit for this cut glass bowl," said a cherry-cheeked young matron.

"Did you buy it?"

"No; it was a wedding present. I'd like to exchange it for granite ware."

"I'd like to return these blouses," said a young woman whose economy is the wonder of her friends. I didn't like either of them."

The complaint clerk smiles. She is aware that the woman has had the French models copied a $12-a-day dressmaker.

No wonder that the complaint clerks find that their occupation requires consummate tact.

Always a Nuisance. Newspaper Man—What made you scowl at the fellow who has just gone out?

Bank official—He's one of those who are always telling me how to run my bank. Retreat? Never! In an Irish garrison town a theatrical company was giving performances, and some soldiers from the local barracks were engaged to act as supers. Their duties included the waging of a fierce fight in which, after a stirring struggle, one army was defeated on a given signal from the prompter. For a few nights all went well, but on the Friday evening a special performance of the piece was to be given under the patronage of the colonel and other officers of the garrison. The two armies met as usual at the end of the second act, when they fought and fought and kept on fighting, regardless of the agonized glare in the eye of their (actor) general, who hoarsely ordered the proper army to "Retreat, confound you!" But the fight still went on, and soon the horrified manager saw the wrong army being driven slowly off the stage, still fighting desperately. Down came the curtain amid roars of laughter, and the fuming manager hastened to ask the delinquents why they had failed to retreat on hearing the signal.

"Retraite," roared a burly fustler, whose visage had been badly battered, "and is it retraite ye'd have us, wid the colonel and all the officers in the boxes?"—Tit-Bits.

Love The Criminal

By J. B. Harris-Borland. COPYRIGHTED 1908

The brisk walk put warmth into his cold feet and vigour into his stiff limbs, and when he arrived at the station, he felt that after a good meal and a glass of whisky and soda, he would be equal to any task that he might have to undertake. He pictured to himself a thick chop and fried potatoes, and even the thought of bread and cheese was sweet to him.

But when he interrogated the sulky-looking porter who loitered aimlessly about the platform, he learnt that none of these delicacies could be procured without a further walk of three miles to the Blue Anchor.

"Perish the station-master who obliges me," he said, holding out half-a-crown.

The man took the money and mumbled out inarticulate gratitude. Then he paused and looked down the line as if seeking inspiration.

"He's a vegetarian," he said, after a long pause. "He don't hold with folks as he calls 'guzzlers.' He live on bread and slops, he do, and I don't reckon 'tis good stuff, judging by his temper. He'm sour as a green apple."

"I'll walk to the inn," said Tankerlane sharply, and then he remembered that it would be no good remaining in the neighborhood unless he could get a boat.

"I want a boat," he said suddenly. The porter gaped at him with open mouth and eyes. The man's slow mind could not guess at the quick transition of thought. He thought he was confronted with a madman, who wanted to feed on timber and sailcloth.

"Boat?" he said stupidly, "what be you wantin' with boat?"

"I want a boat and a man to row it or sail it, and I want it at once. Do you know of anyone who has got a boat, and would like to earn a couple of sovereigns?"

"Can't get to the Blue Anchor by boat," the man replied with a chuckle. "Tis along the road."

"Damn the Blue Anchor and you too," exclaimed Tankerlane, now thoroughly exasperated. "I want a boat to go down the creeks. Do you know of anyone who's got such a thing?"

"Boat?" mumbled the man, searching his head to stimulate his thoughts. "Down the creeks? Lord love you, sir, there ain't no boat in these parts, less you can borrow Mr. Shill's punt."

"Do you mean to say," cried Tankerlane, "that there are no boats in this country, which seems chock full of water? How the devil do you get about it?"

"No, there ain't no boats," the man replied slowly. "We've no call for boats. Them as has boats come from the sea, and not from land. We ain't marsh folk in Pinge."

"Do you mean to say that I can't get a boat anywhere near here?"

"No, you can't, for certain. But there's plenty of boats at Gorven. Fishin' boats, yachts, steamin' boats, most anythin' you please."

"Do you know Con-sea?" asked Tankerlane, pronouncing the name as he had heard it from the lips of the keeper.

"I ain't never heard of it. But you'd best go to Gorven, and they'll learn you all about boats and marshes. I come of inland folk, I do; I ain't never bin in a boat, and by the Lord's help I never will."

Tankerlane looked at the man in blank amazement. The station of Pinge was but two miles from the creeks, and here was a man who had never been in a boat.

"How far is Gorven?" he asked.

"Matter of twenty mile."

"When is there a train?"

"In ten minutes, if it ain't late."

"How long does it take to get there?"

"Matter of an hour."

"Great Scott!" cried Tankerlane, mad with impatience. "This must be the end of the world. I suppose I can get food there, or are they all vegetarians?"

"There be seventeen public houses," the man replied proudly.

"Where is the booking office?" asked Tankerlane. He had resolved to spend the night in a place where he could obtain a boat and commence his search in the morning.

"Gorven," as the porter called it, was evidently part of the civilized world.

Street Car Man Rides a Bucking Horse in Wild West Show and Captures the Prize

During one of the performances of the Dickey's Wild West show at the north side carnival last night, two sections of the seats gave way, precipitating many of the audience to the ground below. Fortunately no one was hurt and the audience took the affair good naturedly.

Herbert Dunn, a street car man, accepted the challenge for any one in the audience to successfully ride any of the bronchos. After sticking to the bucking animal's back, Dunn was thrown to the soft ground with audible impact. He came back strong, however, remounted the horse and succeeded in riding it. Mr. Dickey acknowledged that the man had ridden the animal to his satisfaction and paid the prize.

Everything was running full blast last evening with the exception of the shows which are tied up by the Milwaukee railway here. The human roulette wheel has been in a state of experimentation the first few days of the week, but the management assures the public that it will be running successfully tonight. This is one of the newest articles in the line of amusements and is the only portable one in the country.

Despite the rain last evening the attractions showed to good business. With the continuation of the excellent weather of today and the cessation of the rain the prospects for a good carnival business are bright.

The merchants are already realizing the value of the attractions, business of all kinds having increased noticeably during the week.

BURLINGTON ROAD TO CHANGE NAME

According to persistent rumors in railroad circles the name of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy is to be changed back to the Chicago, Burlington & Northern. The information emanated originally from the offices at Chicago recently and has spread over the entire system. It is probable that the change will be made this summer, some time before the closing of the Alaska-Yukon exposition. The Milwaukee road already designates its road as the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound, in order to indicate to the public that its service extends to the Pacific coast. Their cars are now being renumbered and given the new name.

It is believed by railroad men that the change will be adopted by the Burlington before the summer is over. The name will serve as an advertisement and indicate that the company has service extending to the coast.

A MOUNTAIN OF BUTTER

How Thousands Are Making Fortunes in Wisconsin, The Dairy State of America
"Wisconsin could make enough butter for the whole of America," says Eric Johnson.
And Eric Johnson ought to know, for he himself makes enough for three counties—not to mention the thousands of pounds he ships to Duluth, Superior, Minneapolis, St. Paul and even Chicago. Eric Johnson is one of those who have grown wealthy in Northern Wisconsin. He came to the Round Lake country about fifteen years ago with his fortune in his pocketbook—a little more than two hundred dollars when he had met his preliminary expenses in New York. He put most of the two hundred into a first payment on a 14-acre section in Wisconsin—and that he went to work. He worked hard for a Wisconsin "over" tract is no place for a loafer. He bought sheep and cattle—he let them help clear the land—and with ax and cross-cut saw he helped them. As hard as he worked he found it very difficult to keep up during the first two years. It is no easy matter to open up a new country.

Fortunately the rewards are in proportion to the difficulty of the labor. At the end of the fourth year he was saving money and buying more land. Today he is the biggest dairy man in Wisconsin—owns a tremendous farm, several thousand head of cattle, 1,000 sheep and a good many fine horses. He made 28,000 pounds of butter last year. He sold 18,000 gallons of milk.

And Wisconsin is full of just such cases. The butter made there in a year would stack into a mountain a half mile in circumference and higher by fifty feet than the Washington monument.

Wisconsin is already the Dairy State of America. Yet its resources are hardly being touched as yet—for every acre now employed in dairying there are fifty still uncultured. And every day new settlers are coming into this wonderful land of agriculture.

Farmers, tired out with the cramped life and the limited opportunities of the old worn-out states are coming North to make themselves independent for life—own dairy farms that will bring them in a small fortune each year.

And dairying is about the easiest and most delightful business one can choose—and pays the best for the time put into it.

For full particulars address Frank G. Roth, who has been made exclusive agent for these Wisconsin lands here.

VIROQUA, Wis., June 10.—(Special.)—Charles Minshall one of the best known men of this county and for many years a leading lawyer of this city, was accidentally shot and killed Wednesday by his wife. He had been hunting and returning placed his rifle in the corner of the hall.

Last fall he, with his family, moved from this city to a farm about 6 miles southwest of here, where the accident occurred. He leaves a widow and four sons, a sister, Mrs. Post, and four brothers, Dr. A. P. Frank and Stephen Minshall of this city and a brother in the west.

LINER IS STRANDED IN FIERCE STORM

Topez Lodged Near Point O'Woods and Passengers Are Taken Off by U. S. Revenue Cutters

NEW YORK, June 10.—After a night of horror 309 passengers on board the Spanish liner Antonio Lopez from Cadiz were landed on the shore this morning. The crew is still aboard. They proceeded on the revenue cutters Seneca and Mohawk to New York.

The big liner was stranded last night on a sand reef near Point O' Woods, on the south coast of Lang Island, and all efforts to send a line to her last night or even get her name were fruitless because of the high surf.

Early today Ed Baker, 22, son of the keeper of the Point O' Woods lifesaving station, reached her in a sail boat, and quieted the fears of the passengers who had spent the night on the decks in a freezing wind and cold rain. Later the Merritt and Chapman Wrecking company succeeded in getting a line to the vessel.

The vessel will have to be towed off her perilous resting place. She is a large steamer of 3,951 tons, commanded by Captain Mir. She carried 67 first cabin, 39 second cabin and 203 steerage passengers besides a crew of 135, a total of 444 persons. It is stated at the offices of the steamship company there is absolutely no danger and the vessel will probably be pulled off the sand at high tide.

BLACKHAND CHASE TO SWEEP COUNTRY

Italians and Sicilians caught in dragnet set for black hand and mafia suspects in Ohio; Antonio Nusso, Cleveland; Joseph Nusso, Cleveland; Antonio Vicario, Denison; August Marfisi, Denison; Collogero Vicario, Bellefontaine; Salvatore Lima, Marion; Salvatore Rizzo, Marion; Joseph Bataglia, Marion; Tony Bicherio, Columbus; Salvatore Ventola, Columbus.

CLEVELAND, O., June 10.—Ten Italians and Sicilians are closely guarded in the jails of cities in the various sections of the state as the result of a crusade led by the postoffice authorities against the perpetrators of blackhand and mafia schemes of extortion and intimidation throughout the middle west. The latest arrests were made in Cleveland late last night when the Nusso brothers, peddlers, fell into the clutches of postoffice authorities and Pinkerton men.

The confiscation of a mass of correspondence led federal officers to believe the Buckeye state is the clearing house for blackhand and mafia operations in the principal cities of the United States, and they are following a well marked trail that may lead them to the slayers of Petrosino, the New York detective who met a foul fate in his native land last spring. While there is yet no evidence to connect the prisoners with the plot to kill Petrosino, the postoffice inspectors would be surprised at nothing, so startling have been the revelations of the three days' crusade in Ohio. New York dispatches deny connection between the Ohio gang and Petrosino's death.

From the seaboard to the Missouri river and from Canada to Mexico the operations of the Ohio mafia gang are shown to have extended with amazing evidence of success. The federal officers are today convinced their chase has only begun, and it is intimated inspectors from other postoffice districts will be called out to assist in the crusade that will sweep the entire country.

Thieves Enter Brightly Lighted House and Steal Jewelry and Cash

While Mrs. T. S. Ives and her guests were upstairs last evening the residence, 223 South Fifth street, was entered by way of the front door, by thieves who got away with three purses containing a diamond set, gold watch and chain and about $10 in cash.

Mrs. Thompson, who was a guest at the small supper party given by Mrs. Ives, departed in an automobile about 8:45 o'clock, the rest of the ladies going up on the second floor of the residence to make a few changes preparatory to going to the north side. The front door was heard to slam shut about 9 o'clock and Mrs. J. S. S. 927 Rose street, thinking that it was the man returning with the automobile, asked "Who is there?" When she received no reply the ladies ran down stairs and on seeing no one there, Mrs. S. S. at once became suspicious and began an investigation. Upon looking under her hat, she discovered that her purse was missing. A purse belonging to Miss Sophia Garrick, containing her gold watch and some money was also gone. The police were at once notified and began working on the case. This morning the two purses and a small bag belonging to Gertrude Ives were found in Cameron park, with the watch and money missing. Up to the present time no one has been apprehended. The police think that it is the work of professional thieves.

Mrs. Ives had been entertaining during the evening at a supper party and during that time the entire house was lighted and the shades were up so that any one could see into the house. It is possible that the thieves were watching the place and when they saw that the guests were on the second floor, they made their opportunity good and robbed the house.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take.

MAD DOG BREAKS UP A WEDDING

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 10.—Sixteen persons, mostly children, who were brought here today to be treated at the Pasteur institute told how a mad dog broke up a wedding reception at New Iberia.

The affair was held preliminary to the wedding, at the house of Martin Broussard. The dog rushed through the crowded rooms without warning snapping right and left. Seventeen of the party, including the prospective bride, were bitten before the animal was killed.

At first the victims were treated by ordinary household methods. But the death of one of the Broussard children from hydrophobia caused a panic in the whole party. Broussard got a couple of automobiles, gathered up all those who had been bitten, and rushed them to this city for treatment. The bride is one of the party.

SMUGGLE CHINESE IN DINER ICE BOXES

CHICAGO, June 10.—The ice box of the dining car attached to the Pullman express trains between El Paso, Texas, and Chicago, was the favorite hiding place for hundreds of smuggled Chinese, according to testimony at the trial of a Chinaman and two Mexicans charged with implication in the big scheme to beat the exclusion laws. Albert Hampton, a negro cook in one of the dining cars, told Judge Landis that the plan worked well until one Chinaman was smothered to death; after that it was abandoned. At one time, Hampton said, five Chinese were hidden under a table cloth on top of the ice box.

MOLTEN FLOOD IS FATAL TO SEVEN

WHEELING, W. Va., June 10.—A sharp explosion and a gush of molten metal that overwhelmed workmen, carrying death in its path, occurred at the blast furnace of the Wheeling Steel and Iron Company at Martins Ferry shortly after midnight. At least seven are known to have perished, one dying at the hospital, all being literally roasted alive while three were fatally burned and a dozen others received slight injuries. The accident is the worst in the history of the Ohio town and immediately following it many heroic efforts were made to rescue the workmen often at the risk of serious injuries to those making the attempt. The dead and seriously injured are believed to be largely foreigners.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10.—Work on the wool schedule was resumed in the senate today. Senator Dolliver of Iowa offered an amendment reducing the tariff on yarn, made wholly or partly of wool. The present tariff applies to all such yarns, while Dolliver's amendment was intended to apply only to the wool contents of the yarn. It was lost 31 to 43.

'SPOTLIGHTS

"A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Performances of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" are no everyday occurrences, and presentations of Shakespeare's immortal fantasy with all the music which Mendelssohn was inspired by it to compose are rare. Because of that fact, the co-operation of the Ben Greet Players and Russian Symphony orchestra of New York in productions of this play at the La Crosse theater Monday, June 14, should have extraordinary interest for all lovers of Shakespearean drama. The orchestra will comprise fifty musicians, under the direction of Modest Altschuler, who organized the Russian Symphony band 6 years ago, and has won a prominent place in the artistic life of this country by his enterprise and ability in bringing to the attention of American audiences many works by talented Russian composers previously known by name only to our music lovers.

Mr. Altschuler was born in Mohileff on the Dnyeper, in Russia, where his father, the leader of a small orchestra, introduced the first local theater. At an early age he began to study the cello, and when he was eleven years old he became a pupil of Gobeit, in the Conservatory of Music, in Warsaw. At the age of thirteen he made his first appearance as a soloist with the orchestra. Going later to Moscow, he won a scholarship at the Imperial Conservatory, then under the direction of Wasily Safonoff, now the conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra. Taneyeff was his instructor there in theory and composition. Arenski in harmony, and ashin in the history of music. His first opportunity to wield the baton occurred eight years ago, when, with the assistance of a local orchestra, he gave the first symphony concert in his native town.

The unusual charm of such a performance as will be given by the Russian Symphony and the Greet Players, each of which is famous for its individual work, may be easily imagined. Wherever the combination formed to pay tribute to the memory of Mendelssohn, the centenary of whose birth was observed on Feb. 3, has appeared, it has attracted large audiences. In addition to the players and the musicians, a group of children for the fairy dances, Miss Ruth Vivian, whose solo dancing will be to the accompaniment of the Spring Song and the Nocturne, and Miss Grace Kahler, soprano, will assist in the performances. A special stage setting, designed by Troy and Margaret Kinney, whose mural paintings, especially those in the Grand opera house, Chicago, are well known, will be used.

Repea "A Doll's House."
On account of a number of requests Manager Gage has been able to make arrangements with the Hortense Nielsen Company to play a special engagement at the La Crosse Theater on Saturday and Sunday, June 12th and 13th. On Saturday matinee and night Miss Nielsen will repeat Ibsen's "A Doll's House," in order that those who were unable to see this great play last Sunday will have another opportunity; and no doubt many of the appreciative audience of last Sunday will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing it again, as Miss Nielsen's company is one of the best that has played at La Crosse this season.

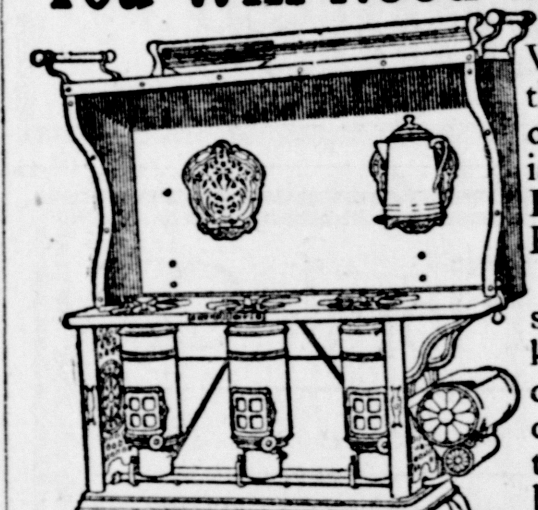

On Sunday, June 13th, matinee and night, Miss Nielsen will appear in Herman Sudermann's masterpiece "Magda," which, although well known to the theater-goers, has not been seen in La Crosse for several seasons. This is the play which made Miss Nielsen famous in one night at San Francisco; and which played to standing-room at the Grand Opera

S.S.S. PURIFIES BAD BLOOD

Bad blood is responsible for most of our ailments, and when from some cause it becomes infected with impurities, humors or poisons, trouble in some form is sure to follow. Muddy, sallow complexions, eruptions, pimples, etc., show that the blood is infected with unhealthy humors which have changed it from a pure, fresh stream to a sour, acid fluid, which forces out the impurities through the pores and glands of the skin. A very common evidence of bad blood is sores and ulcers, which break out on the flesh, often from a very insignificant bruise, or even scratch or abrasion. If the blood was healthy the place would heal at once; but being infected with impurities which are discharged into the wound, irritation and inflammation are set up, the fibres and tissues are broken, and the sore continues until the blood is purified of the cause. S. S. S. is Nature's blood-purifier and is made entirely from roots, herbs and barks. It goes down into the circulation and removes every particle of impurity, humor or poison, restores vitality, and steadily tones up the entire system. S. S. S. neutralizes any excess of acid in the blood, making it pure, fresh and healthy, and permanently cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Boils, and all other eruptions or disease. Book on the blood and any medical advice free.

MINNESOTA AND THE NORTHWEST

BELTRAMI COUNTY OFFICIALS INDICTED

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 10.—The financial tangle which has involved Beltrami county practically since its organization, reached a climax late yesterday when, at the instance of Deputy Public Examiner M. F. Kain, Commissioner Wright, Sibley, Gunderson and Danaher and County Auditor Wiltman of Beltrami, were indicted by the grand jury for alleged misuse of county funds.

The officials indicted will not be tried until September. Factional politics, it is claimed, has so involved the situation that the county will have to start anew in order to get on its feet again. The charges made against the indicted men are based on illegal allowances, bad road contracts and participation in the same by county officials.

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Changes of water and climate often cause sudden attacks of diarrhoea, and it is best to be prepared.

BREWER KILLS HIS DAUGHTER WITH AX

IOWA CITY, Iowa, June 10.—With a blow of an ax, Michael Stigner, a brewery employe, crushed the skull of his 17-year-old daughter, Lena, as she lay sleeping at 6 a. m. today. The girl cannot live.

Attentions paid the daughter by William Warnik led to constant quarrelling in the family. Brooding over this, coupled with excessive drink, caused the crime.

Stigner committed suicide by hanging himself. Stigner's body was found late today hanging by a rope under a wagon bridge near the Rock Island tracks.

Foley's Honey and Tar is especially recommended for chronic throat and lung troubles and many sufferers from bronchitis, asthma and consumption have found comfort and relief, by using Foley's Honey and Tar. O. T. Erhart.

INTEND TO TRY MOTHER FIRST

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 10.—Mrs. Mina Arbogast will be placed on trial for the murder of her husband, Louis Arbogast, the Seventh street butcher, before the daughter Louise, who is now confined in the county jail under indictment for the same offense—murder in the first degree.

It is also sure that the state will fight vigorously any attempt to have Louise committed to an insane asylum.

Further, it is known for a certainty that evidence which has come to the authorities, since the indictment against Mrs. Arbogast was found, tends to point toward her as the guilty party, and practically the only evidence against her in the hands of the state is the statement of the mother.

TWENTY ARE HURLED INTO BURNING BUILDING

HALIFAX, N. S., June 10.—Twenty men were hurled into a burning building while fighting a fire which broke out in the plant of the Nova Scotia Furnishing company. The roof of one of the buildings, on which the men were standing, suddenly collapsed.

One man was killed and seven were injured in the accident.

DEAD BODY ON CAR TOP

CLINTON, Iowa, June 10.—The remains of an unidentified man of 20 years was found on top of a Northwestern fast mail train at the Clinton station. Death was inflicted by a blow against a bridge girder. The youth was well dressed and wore a Wabash railway pin but no papers were found.

R. E. OSBORNE IS NEW TREASURER

FOND DU LAC, Wis., June 10.—The remnant of the Fourteenth Wisconsin infantry, which fought so valiantly throughout the civil war, met yesterday, the occasion being the twenty-second annual reunion of the association. In the afternoon the old soldiers marched to the west side and paid a visit to the site of the camp where the rendezvous of the regiment took place. Beautiful homes and handsomely paved streets now cover the old camp.

At the business meeting DePore was selected as the place for the twenty-third annual reunion next year. Officers were elected as follows: President, F. H. Margdeburg, Milwaukee; secretary, R. A. Spink, Oshkosh; treasurer, R. E. Osborne, La Crosse.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." O. T. Erhart.

HOLMES REVIEW A FINE SUMMARY

necessitating a residence of five years instead of one year. Of proposed constitutional amendments that failed are the resolution by Senator Gaylord granting right of suffrage to women; the Blaine resolution for the initiative and referendum and the Ainsworth resolution up for the second session, raising the minimum school age from 4 to 6 years. This latter resolution undoubtedly was defeated through the medium of the state federation of women's clubs, which made a persistent and consistent fight against the plan.

Labor Legislation
More was gained in the way of labor legislation than was expected in the early part of the session. The social democratic members from Milwaukee were largely responsible for this triumph and it can be stated that they worked faithfully and hard all through the session for measures deemed best for the laboring man. The most important victory gained was the passage of 25A, limiting work on all public contracts to eight hours a day. This bill was practically killed several times, but the assembly nursed the measure along under Mr. Weber's leadership, laying it over and sending it back to committees repeatedly, until finally by a close vote it was passed. The bill met with less trouble in the senate.

The new child labor bill was another measure which encountered blockades all through its career in the legislature. It also was followed carefully by the social democrats. The principal features of this bill are the additional requirements demanded as a basis for certificate permitting children from 14 to 16 to work. Signatures in these cases now will be required from the child's school principal, to the effect that the candidate is efficient in studies, and of a physician to the effect that he regards the child physically capable to work without harm to its future welfare. A limitation also is placed upon persons issuing the affidavits and hereafter they will have to be secured from a factory inspector or from a judge of record.

The elimination of the term "outdoor employment" is another victory for the socialists and for Labor Commissioner Beck, who, it may be stated, put his shoulder to these bills and was a big force in passing them. Under the loopholes offered in this term "outdoor labor," it was shown that children had been employed at heavy work in ice harvests and in handling of cartage merchandise in cities. Farm labor still is exempted from the provisions of the law. Another labor measure which was passed prohibits children under 10 years of age from selling newspapers. The bill declaring shaving and hair-cutting not to be a work of charity or necessity, which is designed to close barber shops on the sabbath, is another important labor measure.

Of labor bills that failed of recognition the most important was the measure limiting hours of labor for women to nine hours a day and forbidding their employment between 6 a. m. and 7 p. m. The social democrats made a hard, but futile fight for this bill, but could not secure its passage.

Binder Twine Fails
Of the general legislation the most important to be defeated was the binder twine issue. The bills for additional appropriations, for a revolving fund, of $100,000 and $40,000 to complete the plant of machinery in the building already constructed under the 1907 act, were defeated after a battle that attracted without doubt the most wide attention of any fight of the session. The defeat of the friends of the plant, however, was by no means a rout and from a strongly entrenched position, in the fact that they now have a well organized legislative support upon which they can depend, these persons are preparing a campaign to gain their end. At the special session next January they intend to renew their fight. The original law creating the plant was not repealed and its friends will come back to the special session and ask for a special appropriation under suspension of the rules to complete the plant. As far as the legislative history is concerned, the binder plant fight saw the most pronounced lobbying of the session except, perhaps, that which always is notoriously incident to the excise legislation. Another important bill which failed in this legislature was the Stout referendum measure to submit to the voters the question of granting women's suffrage. Pensions for supreme court judges were provided in another bill, which met early defeat.

Educational Measures

Educational legislation attracted more than usual attention at this session. The Wisconsin Teachers' association bill paying the way to eliminating the election system for county school superintendents, was killed. The association for years has advocated a system whereby the county school boards could appoint a superintendent, thus securing more efficient supervision of schools. Two university measures that attracted great attention and finally became laws place women on the same basis as men students and provided for a membership of at least two women on the university board of regents. Still another university bill which brought thousands of letters to members was the Wehrwein bill taking the authority of making up the high school accredited list and placing it in the state superintendent's hands. This bill went over to the special session.

One of the bills opposed by the university alumni was the Twesme measure granting hearings to expelled students. This bill was killed. No free text-book laws were passed at this session, although numerous measures were introduced. The only free text book bill that was granted opportunity for debate was a social democratic measure introduced by Senator Gaylord. It went the way of the others. Assemblyman Hull was persistent all through the session in attempts to increase the available funds for the common schools. He thought this had been accomplished when he secured the passage in the assembly of a bill requiring that the state's portion of the inheritance tax be turned over to the school fund. The bill was killed in the senate.

Money for Normals

The school appropriations this session all were passed; in the instance of the normal schools money was allowed for a change in policy permitting the introduction of the dormitory system. A $65,000 dormitory is to be built at Superior. Provision was made for three more county training schools for teachers. Endorsement also was given the plans for the pensioning of teachers, two bills, one applying to the state at large and another to Milwaukee, being passed.

University appropriations were not of the amount desired by the faculty and regents, but closely approached them. Sufficient money was given to carry out determined policies. A minimum salary bill for county teachers was introduced but was killed.

Votes by Governor

Gov. Davidson has been sparing of votes at this session. The most far reaching bill to which he objected was the measure permitting surety bond and liability insurance companies to form boards after the fashion of the Milwaukee fire underwriters' board, allowing it to fix rates and standards. He vetoed this on the ground that it would permit a trust under state laws. The bill regulating farmers' mutual fire insurance companies was vetoed but was passed over the veto. The bill dictating the manner of dividing a company's surplus upon liquidation. The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Hoyt. The Chapple bill permitting cities to pass docks owned by railroad companies was vetoed Wednesday.

Public Health

The public health did not get extensive recognition at this session. Most of the bills on this subject brought out vigorous contests and several failed. The Christian Scientists by their activity defeated the bill providing instruction in public schools concerning hygiene and contagion. Their opposition was based on the theory that the instruction would suggest disease and create peril. The bill for the collection of industrial statistics on workers was passed. The usual appropriation bill for the state board of health also was passed as was also a bill providing for the state sanitary and livestock board in its work of examining and slaughtering tubercular cattle. The bill forbidding any newspaper published outside the state from circulating within Wisconsin if they contain medical advertisements prohibited in Wisconsin papers, was passed. The tenement house bill was a sanitary measure of importance. It is included in the bills of peculiar interest to Milwaukee.

How one man fooled his wife

She had been using her "favorite" baking powder. Wouldn't think of trying anything else, because "mother always used it," or some similar excuse. Hubby said she was prejudiced. He figured if Calumet, the new baking powder, selling at a moderate price, could be so successful, there must be some good in it. So he took a hand, and bought a can of Calumet, emptied the can containing her "favorite" baking powder and filled it with Calumet.

That evening, unsuspecting the trick, Wife prepared and served some of her famous biscuits— piping hot, temptingly browned and puffed up to airy lightness, they were even more delicious than usual. Hubby, after considerable difficulty, succeeded in convincing her that the basis of the improvement was Calumet Baking Powder. And so an everlasting friend for Calumet was made.

This truthful little incident simply proves that the housewife is oftentimes prejudiced against all baking powders except the one she has been using for years. She imagines that no other kind can possibly be as good. This is a mistaken impression. A trial of Calumet will prove that it is purer, more reliable; it has a greater leavening power than any other baking powder made. And it is moderate in price.

WISCONSIN NEWS

COUNTERFEIT FIVE IS IN CIRCULATION

A new counterfeit five dollar bill has been found in circulation in Milwaukee and over Wisconsin cities, and the secret service department has issued a warning to merchants and the public in general to watch out for it, as it is a particularly dangerous one.

The bill is of the series of 1889, (Indian head) and is a photo-mechanical production, printed on bond paper of good quality, blue ink lines having been used to imitate the silk fibre of the genuine.

It is betrayed by the poor character of the work on the Indian head. The color and workmanship of the blue seal and the large numerals, however, are far from being poor, the back of the note being especially deceptive. Officials say it is a dangerous bill.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take.

LAWYER KILLED BY LOVING WIFE

VIROQUA, Wis., June 10.—Charles Mitchell, one of the best known men of this county and for many years a leading lawyer of this city, was accidentally shot and killed Wednesday afternoon by his wife. He had been hunting and returning placed his rifle in the corner of a room in which his wife was doing housework. By some mischance she handled the gun which went off, the bullet striking Mr. Mitchell in the heart.

CENTENARIAN DIES; WIDOW, 98, LIVES

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 10.—After an even hundred years of life, John Nienczinski died Wednesday, while his wife, herself 98 years of age, moaned grief, after the loss of her long battle for her husband's life.

She had nursed him day and night and even sawed the wood to drive the death chill from his bedside. Beside the widow four generations of 127 descendants survive.

The most pathetic feature of death's victory was the reluctance with which the centenarian gave up his last spark of vitality. "O, how I hate to die," being his last words. He enjoyed life and he was loath to leave the beloved wife who had been his companion for seventy-nine years.

FARMER IS KILLED BY ANGRY BULL

BARRON, Wis., June 10.—Rasmus Olson, a farmer 70 years old, living five miles northwest of this city, was gored to death by a mad bull. A boy making his home with the old man started to search for him and discovered him in the field. The bull drove over his mangled body against a tree, the boy from the field. He secured help and finally brought the remains home.

WUEBBEN TO BE EX-COMMUNICATED

MILWAUKEE, June 10.—The Rev. Peter G. Wuebben, who fled from Zion Evangelical church after charges of drinking and borrowing had been made against him, will be suspended from the synod in a week. His expulsion from the Evangelical ministry may follow.

Within the next seven days, the Rev. Henry G. Niefer, pastor of Christus Evangelical church, and president of the Wisconsin district, North American synod of the church, will formally suspend the ministry pastor. Immediately after he will file charges against him in the synod's district court.
